

Direct Mail Portfolio

Full service charity and wafer seal labels

To address today's growing marketing mail opportunities and open up operational efficiencies, look to Avery Dennison. We have the products and service solutions you need to do both.

The evolution of direct mail

While first class mail is declining due to email and social media, marketing mail is continuing to grow – and brands are noticing. With a 2023 predicted total market value of $76 billion, more brands are including direct mail in their multichannel marketing strategies. Others are redefining the category by exploring the integration of intelligent labeling such as QR codes and near field communication (NFC) inlays as well as 3D mail campaigns and augmented reality.
